Biography

George Irwin focuses his practice on complex products liability litigation, real estate litigation, chemical and toxic exposure cases, and business tort actions.

Mr. Irwin has an extensive background defending personal injury and chemical exposure actions filed against manufacturers and suppliers, arising both out of premises liability and product manufacturing claims. He has litigated issues of cancer and disease causation, genetics, industrial hygiene practice, and epidemiological and toxicological analysis. He has defended a wide range of toxic exposure cases, including benzene, asbestos, and talc.”

Mr. Irwin is adept at determining the weaknesses in opponent’s cases to effectively resolve them advantageously for his clients.
