Biography

Joseph M. Gabris is an associate attorney of DeHay & Elliston's Midwest Branch Office, based in the Chicago Loop, as a member of the branch's trial team. Mr. Gabris's practice primarily focuses on corporate defense, products/premise liability, and toxic tort litigation.

Mr. Gabris earned his Bachelor of Arts from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, and graduated magna cum laude with his Juris Doctorate from Northern Illinois University College of Law. During law school, Mr. Gabris served several leadership roles, most notably as Editor-in-Chief of the school's Law Review, and as Associate Justice of the school's Moot Court Society. While in law school, Mr. Gabris's work included time with the EPA, the Department of Justice (ENRD), and the U.S. District Courts for the Northern District of Illinois. Prior to practicing law, Mr. Gabris worked as a chemical salesman and as a solar energy consultant.

Born and raised in Michigan, Mr. Gabris enjoys cooking, camping, traveling, and hiking in his free time.
